

This document contains the topline results of a national online survey conducted on behalf of Demos between June 5 and 14, 2017. The data in this survey is weighted by standard weights to make it fully representative. A total of 1,536 U.S. registered voters, age 18 and older, were surveyed. This included a base of 867 registered voters [n=836; margin of error ±3.4%].

We also used oversamples to get key subgroups listed in the bullets below (with the total sample size that includes their natural occurrence in the base sample):

- Working-class white Obama/Trump voters: defined as white voters who voted for Obama (2012) and Trump (2016), with a household income of less than $75,000 [n=186; MOE ±7.5%]
- Working-class African Americans: defined as African American voters with a household income of less than $75,000 [n=237; MOE ±6.5%]
- Working-class Hispanics: defined as Hispanic or Latino voters with a household income of less than $75,000 [n=271; MOE ±6.0%]
- Progressives: defined as people of any race who identify as extremely or somewhat liberal [n=585; MOE ±4.1%]

Pocketbook Issues	It is no surprise that what keeps some in the working class up at night are pocketbook issues. Their earnings shape the family budget, and they are often forced to make painful decisions about how to spend each and every dollar. They deserve dignity on the job and for their work to be both valued and valuable. We need a Better Deal to eliminate the daily financial stresses experienced by our working class.
Rigged System	Right now, big banks, Wall Street and the rich use their money to buy access and rig the system. Making money through innovation or hard work is the American way. But what's wrong is when the system lets the rich buy access, rig the system and hold the rest of us down. A Better Deal will fix this inequality of power and restore honesty and balance in the system so everyone has a chance to work hard and succeed.
Reinvent	America needs to reinvent the economy so that hard work is rewarded and opportunity exists for those willing to work hard to get ahead. Handouts don't make sense anymore, but neither does slamming the door on equal opportunity. A Better Deal will reward work, provide opportunity and give everyone a chance to build a better life.
Squeezed Out	The inequality gap in America is larger today than it's ever been. The rich are getting richer, and the middle class is getting squeezed out. We need a new, Better Deal which redistributes some of the wealth so that income gaps don't disadvantage the hardworking Americans that deserve a decent living.

Technological innovation and the global economy are some of the most important forces in the world today. Though they enhance productivity, they also disrupt labor markets, require workers to learn new skills more quickly and challenge our global competitiveness. As a nation, we need a Better Deal to respond to these opportunities and challenges by investing in innovation, infrastructure, and small business to make it easier for workers to acquire new skills and switch jobs when it's necessary.

Technology

Though having a college education is important for getting a good job, college is becoming increasingly expensive, making it less accessible to the students who need it most. We need a new, Better Deal which will prioritize higher education and help states invest in public institutions so that all Americans have the opportunity to earn a degree debt-free.

Debt free college

To make an economy that works best for America, we need to protect the deals we have already made and propose a Better Deal in other areas. That means, first, protecting Social Security and Medicare from cuts and keeping protections for equal pay and workers' rights. Second, that means making new investments in infrastructure and higher education, and setting minimums for sick days and paid family leave.

Protect deals

Today, disrespect is baked into working class jobs. From unstable schedules to low pay to wage theft, employers impose punitive workplace policies that place the blame for a low quality of life squarely on the worker. Workers are seen as costs to be minimized, and their dignity and value are forsaken for maximum profit. An economy based on disrespect that ignores the needs of workers and their families is not sustainable. We need a new, Better Deal for the working class.

Disrespect

Our country cannot succeed unless we are all given a chance to succeed, and that means we need to address the issues which have held some of us back because of race. A Better Deal for America means fixing racial disparities in pay, education, healthcare, and housing. We cannot survive in the global economy if we don't give everyone a true chance to build a better life.

Racial disparities

For too long, those in power have divided working people—pitting whites against blacks, men against women and everyone against immigrants. When the powerful turn Americans on each other, we let Wall Street bankers run our economy, oil companies stop clean energy, giant corporations ship good jobs overseas, and the rich give themselves tax breaks. That all takes money from our schools, highways, healthcare, and retirement. When we turn on each other, we can't unite to demand a better deal for all struggling people in America, no matter what their background.
